

Station

«Diagnostic Methods and Semiotics in Pediatrics»

Task №1. Clinical examination and evaluation of meningeal symptoms in infants

You are a family doctor. The mother is seeking your medical attention because of complaints about frequent vomiting and drowsiness in her 8 months old boy. During examination child lies on the right side, his head is not tilted, body temperature is 38.9°C, you can also notice physical sluggishness and hyperesthesia of the skin.

Please check on a manikin meningeal symptoms and asound the criteria of negative meningeal symptoms.