

Station number __ "Medical and preventive work".

Scenario № 1

In the hospital, cases of intestinal infection have become more frequent in patients who are in hospital. For cooking, tap water from the central water supply is used. It is known that the hospital's water pipes have not been decontaminated for the past three years.

The task:

1. Establish what could have caused the development of intestinal infections.
2. Conduct sanitary and hygienic research necessary in this case.
